Replace line 18 with

--container;

wherein the browser object container is a stand-alone executable operating locally but giving an appearance of being connected to the Internet wherein the browser object container limits navigation through the content data within defined limits of the navigation options.--

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 1-3, 5-14, 16-23, and 25 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Examiner has carefully considered the independent claims 1, 12, and 25. The teaching for "implementing a browser object container" as recited in claims 1, 12, and 25 was not taught or suggested by the prior art. David, Jr. (USP 6057854) teaches downloading a vector object from a network, the vector object contains data for rendering an image and active area defined by the vector object. Prieto (USP 5974181) teaches steps encrypting and compressing image data.

However, neither David, Jr. or Prieto, alone or in combination, teaches limitations "identifying content data for inclusion in a browser object container, wherein the browser object container comprises a graphical user interface development platform for providing a purpose-built Internet browser and wherein the browser object container comprises tagged data for enhancement integrity wherein at least one new feature identified by at least one new tag will not execute on an previous application” and “wherein the browser object container is a stand-alone executable operating locally but giving an appearance of being connected to the Internet wherein the browser object container limits navigation through the content data within defined limits of the navigation options” in specific combinations as recited in independent claims 1, 12, and 25. As such, claims 1, 12, and 25 define patentably over relevant prior art made of record.

5. Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled “Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance.”
